

Overview

Historically Information Technology was merely an operational necessity for most companies. Today to adapt to the economic uncertainty, it's more important than ever to ensure that IT resources (funds, people, assets) are allocated appropriately to projects that are aligned with corporate strategy and that business cases are fully realized.

Pyramus Consulting can assist your organization in developing or enhancing strategic Program Management Office (PMO) infrastructure. One that will equip you with best practice processes and tools to successfully manage your IT area as well as the business areas it serves. Whether it's strategic alignment, project selection, resource management, project planning, or issues/risk/change management, Pyramus Consulting has the expertise required to fully design, implement, and help manage your new or improved IT PMO.

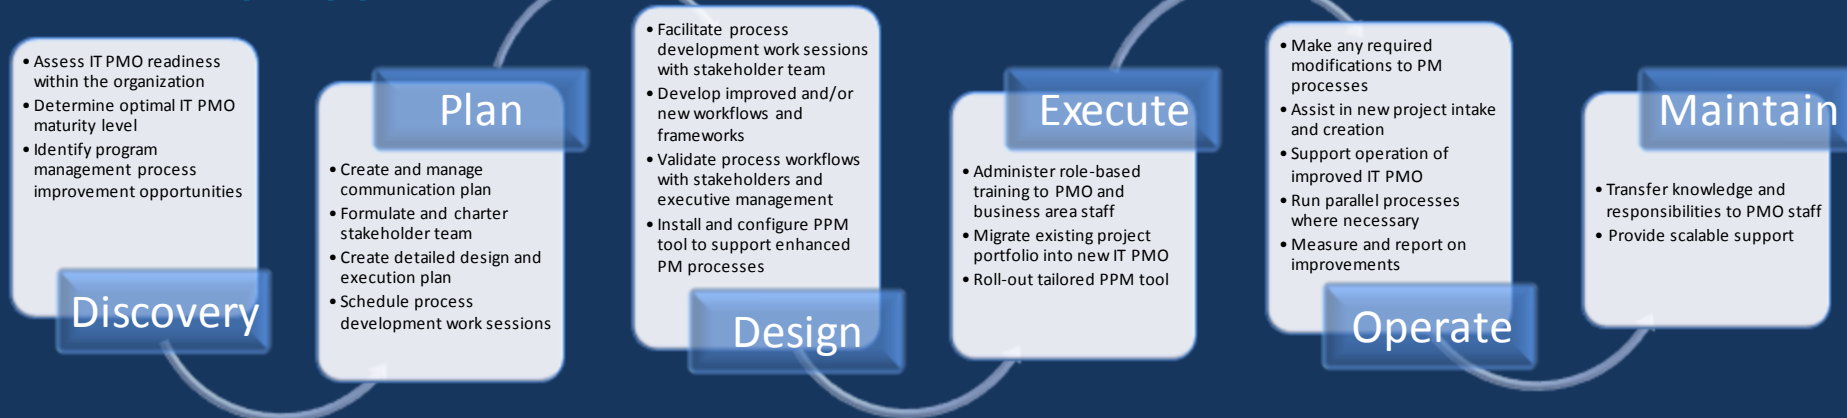

Pyramus IT Program Management enhances your capability to manage a single project, a group of related projects /program, or a portfolio of projects. This project management "continuum" is at the heart of our IT PM services. We understand the varying needs and complexities of different IT departments and will work to develop a PMO that is suitable for you.
